

U. S. Supreme Court Sustains Prohibition

Opinion Says War Time Dry Law Is Constitutional

Liquor Interests Handed A Solar Plexus Blow By Decision of Country's Highest Tribunal

(By Associated Press)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—The Supreme Court today held war-time prohibition constitutional. The opinion was read by Associate Justice Brandeis, who said the government did not appropriate liquor by stopping its domestic sale, as the way is left open for exporting it. The opinion declared the signing of the armistice did not abrogate the war powers of Congress, and it called attention to the continued control of the railroads and re-assumption of powers by the government relative to coal and sugar under war acts to show that the government continues to exercise the various war powers despite the signing of the armistice. The court declared the constitutional prohibition amendment is binding on the federal government as well as the states and supercedes state laws.

It said there is no basis for the contention that President Wilson's statement in his message vetoing the prohibition enforcement act, that the war had come to an end, was a proclamation announcing the termination of the war.

The court confined itself entirely to the war-time prohibition act and took no action on the so-called beer cases, which attacked the constitutionality of the prohibition enforcement act.

The opinion was on all cases from New York and Kentucky, and was unanimous. In the Kentucky case injunctions were dissolved, restraining revenue officials from interfering with the removal from bond of about 70,000,000 gallons of whiskey, valued at approximately $75,000,000 held by the Kentucky Distilleries and Warehouse Company of Louisville.

Thus vanished the hopes of many for a "wet" holiday time and added one of the final milestones to the long fight to make the country "dry."

The constitutional prohibition amendment becomes effective January 16th. Until then war time prohibition is expected to keep the country dry.

Constitutionality of the war-time prohibition and the prohibition enforcement laws was attacked in the Supreme Court in three different appeals. One was from Kentucky, where the former statute was held invalid. Two came from New York where both acts were sustained.

Besides the millions of dollars invested in brewery and distilling plants, the decision affects approximately 60,000,000 gallons of whiskey valued alone at between $100,000,000 and $200,000,000, according to internal revenue officials' estimates.

The cases of the Kentucky Distilleries and Warehouse Company, of Louisville, and Dryfoos, Bum & Company, of New York, were virtually identical and resulted from efforts to compel the government to release whiskey from bond. The third case, an appeal of Jacob Ruppert, a brewer of New York, involved authority under the acts to manufacture beer containing 2.75 per cent alcohol.

In arguing the cases before the Supreme Court on Nov. 20th and 21st, 1919, Elihu Root and others appearing in opposition to the prohibition acts, contended that war-time prohibition was unconstitutional because Congress had no power to prohibit the sale of intoxicants within a state except under its war power which had ceased; that the act conflicted with the Fifth constitutional amendment prohibiting the taking of private property without just compensation and that the war had terminated, making the act obsolete and invalid. It was also contended that the Volstead law (the prohibition enforcement act) by fixing one half of one per cent as the maximum amount of alcohol in beverages, established a new standard for intoxicants. Mr. Root also contended that the constitutional prohibition amendment allowed liquor dealers a "year of grace" to enable them to readjust their affairs to meet changed conditions but despite the amendment, which he argued was virtually a contract between Congress and the states, the liquor business had been constantly heckled with legislation by prohibitionists in Congress seeking to advance the time for national prohibition.

These contentions were generally rebutted by Solicitor General King and William L. Frierson, assistant attorney general, appearing on the government's behalf, who took the position that the prohibition act is still in full force owing to the senate's delay in ratifying the peace treaty; that a state of war technically exists; that national prohibition was necessary for the winning of the war and the establishment later of normal peace conditions and that such legislation came within the war powers of Congress.

In declaring the war-time prohibition act unconstitutional, Federal Judge Walter Evans in Louisville, held the act conflicted with the Fifth amendment and enjoined internal revenue officials from preventing the Kentucky Distilleries and Warehouse Company from removing whiskey for beverage purposes from its warehouses. The act, however, was upheld in the Dreyfoos case by the Federal district court in New York which dismissed proceedings brought to enable the company to withdraw a small quantity of distilled spirits from bond.

The Kentucky case was decided by the lower court on Oct. 27 and the New York cases on Nov. 14th and all were immediately appealed. About 18 months would have been required for them to make their way thro the Supreme Court docket for argument had not the court upon motion of both sides, agreed to expedite their consideration owing to the short time elapsing before national constitutional prohibition becomes effective in January.

HIGHER PRICES AT PICTURE SHOWS

The management of the local picture shows announced higher picture show prices beginning to-night. Because of the increase of film rental, rents, war tax and employees, the prices of admission in most every town in the United States have been increased in the past two months.

The admission on the local theatres will be raised to children 20c, adults 30c, balcony 20c, beginning with to-night performance. All super-feature productions will be shown at this price.

A standard price is to be established and in the future all features will be shown at the regular admission prices of 10c and 20c. An orchestra will be furnished with the picture program nightly, musical acts and singers will also be presented to the theatre goers throughout the season. A special quartette has been engaged for an early engagement here which will be a treat to music lovers.

A lot of pictures has been selected for the coming year, such as Lombardi Ltd., Nazimova in "The Brat", Mary Pickford in "Tollyanna", Douglas Fairbanks in his newest big four productions "When The Clouds Roll By", and "His Majesty, the American". The race horse story "Checkers" in "In Old Kentucky" D. W. Griffith's "Broken Blossoms", Elsie Janis in "A Regular Girl", Robt. Warwick in that famous novel "Told in the Hills", Norma Talmage in "The Island of Conquest", and others. The biggest stars and biggest productions available with good music, will be presented regularly.

BOOSTS TOM PICKELS IN HIS NEW JOB

The Publisher's Auxiliary, the house organ of the Western Newspaper Union, with which Tom H. Pickels, formerly of Richmond, has been connected since he left Richmond several years ago, makes the following complimentary mention of his promotion to the management of the Baltimore office, which will be read with interest by his many friends at home here:

Meet Mr. Pickels, of Baltimore. The Auxiliary is pleased this week to introduce Thomas H. Pickels, just appointed manager of the Baltimore office of the Western Newspaper Union, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of George R. Belows, for many years manager of that office.

Mr. Pickels brings to the Baltimore field a broad experience in the newspaper business, a cheerful optimism that is contagious, and a sunny sparkling personality, which insures his welcome in that splendid territory, and his success as manager.

Born in Richmond, Ky., in the heart of the famous blue grass region, he grew up in the wholesome atmosphere of the section, taking his B. A. degrees at the University of Kentucky. While in college his interest in journalism was awakened and he did considerable work for the college paper.

On leaving school he became the owner and editor of the Richmond Register, one of the oldest and best weekly papers in the state. For 12 years he conducted the Register, during which period he made it a leader in its field and a political power to reckon with. The field cramped Tom, however, and, as he expresses it, desiring to get into the "Big League", he sold the Register and accepted a position with the Cincinnati office of the Western Newspaper Union as traveler. He was an instant success as a salesman, and since that time has spread good cheer and the gospel of service from Florida to the St. Lawrence, having been attached to various branches.

In every field he made a legion of friends. He left the New York office to take charge at Baltimore.

We believe the publishers of the Baltimore territory are to be congratulated upon the acquisition of Mr. Pickels, whom they will find an energetic, resourceful, courteous gentleman, whose experience has been such as to be of value to them. And they may be assured it will be at their command.

But please spell Mr. Pickels' name with the "el." He is not the common or garden variety.

RICHMOND BOY WAS IN BALLOON RACE

It has not been generally known here that Lieut. Chas. S. Powell, of Richmond, was one of the fliers in the national balloon race of a few weeks ago. The Daily Register has just received a copy of a St. Louis paper which told of his part as follows:

Four of the eleven balloons which started from here yesterday in the national balloon race are down, according to telegrams received by Maj. Albert Bond Lambert of the Missouri Aeronautical Reserve Corps. Three other balloons have been heard from, the fourth being the pilot. Three other balloons have been heard from, but were in the air at the time they were reported.

The balloons down, pilots aids and place of landing follows: "The Missouri Aeronautical Reserve," Capt. Elmer G. Marschuetz, pilot; Lieut. Charles S. Powell, aid, landed at 12:45 a. m. near Roselle, Ill.

The Rockwood coffee habit is a mighty delightful habit. It makes the best meal, just a little better. If you don't believe it say Rockwood to D. B. McKinney & Co., and find out for yourself.

The Shallow Ford school will give their closing exercise Saturday, Dec. 13, by Rev. J. W. Broadbent. Refreshments will be served. Miss Elizabeth Thompson, Teacher.

MAYOR NOTIFIED FUEL BAN IS OFF

Regional Coal Committee Sends Out Official Notice and Stores May Now Keep Open

Mayor L. P. Evans Monday morning received formal notice from Regional Coal Committee of the removal of fuel restrictions, which will be good news for business men who are anxious to keep their stores open for the holidays trade. The official notice to the Mayor which says all the lights and fuel needed may be used, is as follows:

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 12, 1919.

To The Public: The Southern Regional Coal Committee is glad to be able to announce a general relaxation of the restrictions upon the use of fuel which the people of the South have observed so loyally during the crisis brought on by the coal miners' strike. Upon receipt of the necessary authority from the Central Committee at Washington, the following instructions were sent tonight to the railroad officials in charge of the conservation program:

"All restrictions upon hours of operation and business of industries, stores, office buildings, etc., imposed by fuel conservation regulations announced on November 29th and by subsequent modifications and additions hereto, are hereby suspended until further notice. Full information will be given to the newspapers and press associations but you should see that all your officials and local agents are advised promptly of this notice. Formal notice should be given particularly to the Mayor or other chief local public officers who have been co-operating in enforcement of the regulations.

"Immediate suspension of the regulations is possible because of the increased coal production in the Region and is desirable because of the necessity for returning empty cars quickly to the mines for reloading. The relaxation of mandatory conservation measures must not be construed as indicating that coal is going to be plentiful this winter. Until production becomes normal throughout all the country's coal fields and normal reserves accumulated by consumers it is vitally necessary that coal be conserved in every way possible. It will be necessary to continue conservation because of the loss in production of between thirty and thirty-five million tons during the strike. For the present, the restriction limiting deliveries by retail coal dealers to one ton per household remains in effect.

"In announcing the suspension of regulations quickly in order to permit industries to return to a normal basis as soon as possible and also to facilitate the handling of Christmas trade by merchants during the few days remaining before the holidays, the Regional Coal Committee does not hold out promise that it will be able to supply fuel for industries other than utilities which now have no stocks on hand."

The following instructions were also sent at the same time:

"You are hereby authorized until further advised to release for prompt movement and delivery in accordance with original billing all coal on wheels or which may be loaded at the mines consigned to consumers in first five classes of Fuel Administration's preference list.

"You are further authorized to release for prompt movement and delivery coal consigned to classes six and seven of the preference list to the extent each line can make delivery without jeopardizing the supply for the first five classes. Prompt placement for unloading of cars on hand at destination consigned to consumers in all of the seven classes referred to should be made, except where it may be necessary to hold cars from consumers in the sixth and seventh classes having amounts of coal consigned to them greatly in excess of their immediate needs and which may be needed either for supplying the first five classes or for making emergency deliveries to industries in the sixth and seventh classes whose coal has been diverted and who have no stocks on hand. It will be necessary to protect the latter classes so far as practicable for a short time until opportunity has been given for the movement of shipments from the mines.

SMALL NEWSPAPERS FACE EXTINCTION

(By Associated Press)

Washington, Dec. 15.—Three thousand small newspapers face suspension, if not extinction, unless the scarcity of news print is soon remedied, Representative Anthony, republican, of Kansas, told the House postoffice committee today, in urging a favorable report on his bill to limit the size of newspapers and periodicals using second class mail privileges. He asserted the present shortage is due to rapacity of the great publishing companies buying all the news print they can lay their hands on. He said the situation for the small publishers is all but tragic.

FAMOUS MAGICIAN COMES WEDNESDAY

What is said to be a gold mine of irrepressible laughter, fun, tricks, and amusement will be in Richmond, Wednesday, December 17th, at the Opera House.

Who can ever forget the first magic performance he ever saw? Awesome, wasn't it, to see "easy money" picked out of the air, eggs from people's noses, (and eggs 75c per dozen—you hoped Magi would not lose his nerve and drop 'em) and guinea pigs from their hats. A sure-enough-never-to-be-forgotten experience even if you didn't get any of the money, eggs, pigs or oranges, at a time when prices were so fancyl. These are the simple stunts. How many of us have seen a really first class performance by a Master? Probably one in ten. The Herrmann performance is the most complete magic program ever staged; special settings, gorgeous paraphernalia and properties and a large force of assistants are necessary to put on this matchless exhibition of mystery and diablerie.

The Great Herrmann's unrivaled skill is the product of thirty years of diligent study under his uncle, Alexander Herrmann the Great. Every branch of the mystic art has been investigated by the Great Herrmann. Natural genius, diligent study, deep research and original thought have made his a Master Mind in magic.

With the Great Herrmann comes Mme. Creator and her famous musical organization, the dancing DuBrowns, exhibiting all classes of dancing and some absolutely new ones, the Ferraros, the laugh provokers, Mile. Dazza, Marie, Toulinoir and beautiful Jessie Smith.

1. In land waterway vessels.
 2. Coastwise shipping.
 3. Ships flying the American flag in overseas service.
 4. Ships flying foreign flags.
- "Specific authority will be given by each port officer upon presentation of details by bunker agent having contract to coal ship subject to coal being available, and preference will be given in supplying bunker coal for ships in accordance with the above order of preference. Authority for release of export cargo coal remains vested in this committee and application must be made accordingly for release of cargo coal."

The relaxation of restrictions authorized in the above instructions necessarily are subject to developments in the coal fields. If for any reason production should be insufficient to meet the requirements of the first five classes, of the preference list it may become necessary to restore restrictions both upon distribution and consumption, wholly or in part.

"Baby Bonds" and "Baby Beef"

By C. M. MORRISON.

It appears that the "Baby Bond" and "Baby Beef" idea got tangled up in the boyish brain of Bobby Young, at or about the same time. "Bob" was, officially, Robert Young, Jr. But his old man considered that he himself was the author of the classic phrase: "I can take one mule and one nigger and show you more about farmla' on one 40 acres than all those book-farmla' feller can show you on a bull quarter section."

Well, what are you going to do about it, when you have a father who is no thicker than that back of the ears, and who is just that narrow between the eyes? It looks like there wasn't much room for argument, don't it?

Bob wasn't much of a youngster to argue, anyway. He had got hold of the pure-bred beef idea and then the "Baby Beef" scheme got planted in his gray matter. He had it all figured out that if he could get hold of the right kind of stock he could feed some young beef steers that would be just about the slickest things that ever stepped on a feedlot scale. But to get the right kind of steers and to hold and have them in his own name and behoof, so to speak—well, that was a different kind of an animal.

The W. S. S. campaign hadn't got much more than well started till Bob was all interest. Savings accounts meant nothing in his young life and the only bank he had any dealings with was an old tin box that he kept his savings in and well hidden under a loose board in the attic. The words "Baby Bond" as applied to the War Savings Stamp of the Five-Dollar denomination kept ringing in his mind and he began to connect them up with his pet project about "Baby Beef."

Now with enough "Baby Bonds" it would be possible, after a while, to turn in and buy the raw material for his "Baby Beef" feeding project. It might take a year or two, though, and a year or two seemed a mighty long time to a youngster who was still wrestling with cube root and mensuration in the country school house, while he felt like he ought to be studying feeding tables and mastering the Babcock tester.

The thing to do was to make a start. Out of his dark hiding place under the oaken flooring of the old farm house came Bob's tin box. The next time the mail carrier came around he was somewhat surprised to see a freckled lad rise up out of the fence corner at the turn of the road and order three of the "Baby Bonds."

Bob was making his start. Somehow it seemed a lot easier to save money when you had something plainly before you that you wanted to do. Then, too, it looked like chances to make money, enough to go a good way toward buying another "Baby Bond," kept turning up.

The walnut trees seemed to understand that it was necessary for a boy to make a little more money than usual that fall, for the trees were laden and walnuts were never higher in price. Minks, muskrats and skunks were not inclined to walk obligingly into traps, but a good many of them got tangled up on the steel jaws of Victor and Newhouse before the trapping season was many weeks old.

With one thing and another the youngster who had set out to collect himself some "Baby Bonds" and some "Baby Beef" found himself in possession of about fourteen or fifteen of the "Bonds" by December 15. It had been a hard struggle and took a good deal of self denial, but there the W. S. S. were, all tucked away in the old tin box.

A day or so later, his mother's brother, a red-faced, brown-handed citizen of Wyoming, made the pilgrimage "back home." He had been growing Shortborn beef out on the ranges and he loved, above all things, to talk beef, particularly Shortborn beef. In Bob he found a kindred soul of a hopeless case, but he and the boy put in a lot of time together. It wasn't long, of course, until he had got at the whole story of the "babies," the "bonds" and the "beef."

"I'll tell you, Bob," he said as they sat by the kitchen fireplace on Christmas Eve. "This bond and beef scheme you've got in your head is mighty nigh to all right. It will be slow picking for you. But you keep hammering along now. My Christmas present to you this year, one of them, anyway, is going to be a promise."

"You keep going with this plan of yours and I'll back you in the beef end of the business. For every dollar that you will stick into the little 'bonds' by next Christmas I'll put up two dollars. I've a bunch that you will have about enough by that time to make a start on the beef end of your little, old scheme."

"You little old green rascals," Bob addressed his "Baby Bonds" that night when he turned in. "Looks like you've just about made good on your part of the job already. What's a year, anyway? I'll bet I have the slickest little old bunch of forced-fed steers one of these days you ever saw."

"Gude's," The Genuine

There is really no reason why men or women with thin, watery blood and consequent poor health should remain in that unfortunate condition. Thin, nervous, run-down, tired people never get much happiness out of life.

Men and women with the bloom of health in their cheeks, a cheerful, sunny disposition and an attractive personality are the folks who get most of life's enjoyment, pleasure, and success.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan furnishes thin, watery blood with the necessary nourishment to enrich it, enabling it to supply energy and strength to every part of the body.

Physicians recommend Gude's Pepto-Mangan to patients suffering from anemia because it is beneficial and lasting qualities are well-known to the medical profession.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan is obtainable in either liquid or tablet form. Both forms contain exactly the same strength and medicinal properties.

When you buy Pepto-Mangan of your druggist, be sure the name "Gude's" is on the package. Without "Gude's" it is not Pepto-Mangan.

SWIFTS & CO'S WEEKLY

PRODUCE REVIEW

The most important feature of the situation this week is the pronounced tendency toward lower prices on eggs and butter.

The United States Department of Agriculture figures of stocks available December 1st, are not yet available. The associated warehouse report covering 53 warehouses shows the following stocks:

Eggs
Dec. 1, 1919.....2,000,700 cases
Dec. 1, 1918.....1,325,700 cases
Increase.....675,000 cases
Butter
Dec. 1, 1919.....49,483,000 lbs.
Dec. 1, 1918.....40,908,000 lbs.
Increase.....8,575,000 lbs.
The Government report, covering the entire country, and not merely a small percentage of all the houses, will probably show a much larger surplus prevailing have undoubtedly curtailed consumption of both butter and eggs.

While receipts of cream this week have not been heavy, there has been considerable pressure to sell butter, and some surplus on the larger markets, resulting in lower selling prices. The figures shown above indicate a considerable reserve stock to supplement current production.

Fresh eggs are quoted lower, due to lighter demand at prevailing prices, and as it is getting late in the selling season for storage eggs, and close to the producing season on fresh, the trade will be very glad to see a liberal in stocks each week.

Poultry receipts have been ample for current requirements and prices have undergone little change. It appears there is still a large part of the crop to move, and it will tax the capacity of dressing plants to handle the poultry as sold.

Turkeys have moved from the farms at record prices but most dressers have taken on sufficient stock to fill their eastern orders. All stock should be in cars and moving not later to reach the seaboard cities by December 19th and 20th.

YOUNGSTERS PROVIDE

PLEASING COMEDY

Much of the comedy in "The Unpardonable Sin"—for there is comedy aplenty in addition to pathos in this extraordinary Harry Garson production—is provided by two able little actors, who will be particularly welcomed everywhere by members of the Boy Scouts of America. One of the youngsters plays the part of a member of the Belgian organization of the Boy Scouts and the other announces to his chance acquaintance that he is an American Boy Scout, hailing from a little town in Kansas. The two youngsters match their wits against those of adults in the cause of Humanity, and gets results which, in some instances, are as amusing as they are gratifying. Bobby Connolly, well known to picture patrons the country over, because of past performances, plays the part of the Belgian youngster and Wesley Barry, a comparative newcomer in big photoplay productions, does remarkable work as the ragged little American who ran into so many difficulties when a terrible tragedy left him friendless and alone in Europe.

"The Unpardonable Sin" will be the attraction at the local theatre, beginning Dec. 18. The engagement is for 2 days and 4 performances will be given daily.

NEGLECTING THAT COLD OR COUGH?

Why, when Dr. King's New Discovery to promptly check it

It's natural you don't want to be careless and let that old cold or cough drag on or that new attack develop seriously. Not when you can get such a proved successful remedy as Dr. King's New Discovery.

Cold, cough, grippe, croup does not resist this standard reliever very long. Its quality is as high today as it always has been—and it's been growing steadily in popularity for more than fifty years. 50c. and $1.20 a bottle at all druggists. Give it a trial.

Constipated? Here's Relief

"THE MESSIAH" AT BERA TONIGHT

The Harmonia Society of Berea College will give its thirteenth annual presentation of "The Messiah" in the college chapel Monday night, Dec. 15. Professor Ralph Rigby, director, has been fortunate in procuring some noted soloists for the concert. They are Miss Mary Ann Kaufman Brown, soprano, who was with the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra 1913-15 seasons; Mrs. Florence Evans, contralto, now with the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra; Joseph Schenke, tenor, Cincinnati; and John Dold, basso, Cincinnati. These singers will be supported by 100 voices. Miss Gladys V. Jamison will assist at the piano and Mr. Howard E. Taylor at organ.

A SQUARE DEAL—IT WILL BE OUR MOST EARNEST EFFORT TO GIVE A SQUARE DEAL TO ONE AND ALL. SALES WILL BE HELD FOR THE INTEREST OF THE SELLERS AND THE BUYERS.

OUR CHIEF INTEREST WILL BE TO GIVE THE GROWERS A SQUARE DEAL AT ALL TIMES.

Sales Monday, Wednesday, and Friday

We do not try to pinhook our customers but we do our best to give all the same treatment and the best information at our command at all times. Last season we advised everybody to hold tobacco until January 1st. We want to inform you that tobacco is high, very high in North Carolina, and judging our market by that, as we have been able to do in the past, good, bright tobacco will be very high in Kentucky. The apparent large per cent of low grade tobacco in this crop has had a tendency to make us apprehensive of lower prices for common tobacco, though we are glad to note a considerable advance in low grade upon hoghead markets in the past ten days.

It will pay you to put your tobacco over the floor. The speculator who offers to buy expects to make money and is probably better posted than you.

Take pains in stripping and sorting and let us sell your crop for the High Dollar.

The staff of life plus good milk, that's what Crusader Milk Bread really is. The milk used in its making gives it a most palatable flavor and makes the crumb light, white and even.

THIS YOUNG SAMSON NEVER TASTED MEAT

Seattle, Wash.—A. Samson, as a baby and a Hercules at the age of 15.

That's the title that can be given to Dean Duffield Cutting, who at 15 stands six feet three inches in height weighs 185 pounds, and has attained his physical perfection by following a program that is in itself astounding to the heavy eaters of today.

On November 19, 1905, the Seattle Daily Times published an article about Dean, then less than two years of age, naming him the Baby Samson. The newspaper has followed his progress through these fifteen years. It was predicted then that the boy would be a marvel and his mode of living has been carefully watched.

Young Cutting rises every morning at 5:00 o'clock. He has his breakfast—one quart of cool water, and then starts for work in a local shipyard. He plays around with a mere 75-pound drill during the morning and takes his lunch at 11 o'clock—three peanut sandwiches, two, or three bananas and one pint of milk. Note that nothing warm has touched his stomach since rising.

In the afternoon he continues his juggling act with the 75-pound drill and returns home at 5 o'clock. He then takes a hot bath and eats his dinner. Usually it is beans without pork, mashed Irish or sweet potatoes and other vegetables. He has never eaten meat. When a child he saw a picture of a dog retrieving a fowl and turned against all meat as a consequence. At 11 years of age he kicked a football. When he was 2 years old he started training, using two-pound dumbbells.

At 11 years of age he kicked a football 109 feet. During the same year he had his first and only fight. An older boy called him a coward and a "frailty cat".

He can lift his mother and carry her around the house as if she were a doll. His father, who weighs 190 pounds, has had more than one ride in his son's arms.

Dean's great strength has never actually been tested. Physical directors here, in both the high school and at the State University, all agree that he is a marvel.

His fellow workers at the shipyard hoot the idea that he is but 15 years of age. They believe him 25. He does not want to become a professional athlete or a prizefighter. He is looking forward to returning to school, where he will become a sophomore this coming semester. Football holds an attraction for him. At two he was a Samson. Today he is a Hercules. What will he be when he grows up?

Liquor interests handed a salaried blow by decision of country's highest tribunal.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH THE AMERICAN
In Serbia.

As far back as the first winter of the war, the Red Cross sent to Serbia a sanitary commission that effectively checked the scourge of typhus, but after the United States entered the conflict, the Red Cross was able, in August, 1917, to send a full commission that carried on extensive relief operations among the suffering refugees of the tortured nation. Hospitals were established, the refugees fed, clothed, and given medical attention, the army supplied with much needed dental treatment, farm machinery, and seeds provided to help the Serbs redeem their land to productivity, and, not least, measures undertaken for the succor of the children. The terrible condition into which these helpless victims of the war had fallen is well portrayed by this photograph of a little Serbian girl wearing the rags and expression of hopeless misery that were all she possessed when the Red Cross came.

To the American People

IT is the declared purpose of the United States Government to restore the railroads at an early date to the control of their owners.

The Association of Railway Executives represents those upon whom at that time responsibility will again rest for the prompt and successful movement of the country's commerce.

Those constituting this Association are keenly conscious of their accountability to the public.

They have accordingly determined to present as fully as they can, the fundamental facts and considerations which they themselves must face in their efforts to provide satisfactory railroad service.

It is hoped to engage the interest of the whole American people, whose welfare is so vitally dependent upon adequate transportation.

The country can grow only as the railroads grow. The railroad problem must be solved—and solved rightly and soon—if our country is to prosper.

It is to promote that prosperity—permanently and in the interest of the whole people—that railroad executives will present to the public the situation as they see it.
